Homeless Case Management Re-Imagined

IHS, The Institute for Human Services
Limits of Homeless Service System

- People experiencing chronic homelessness are typically extremely poor and vulnerable, with complex medical, mental health and substance use conditions” (“Ending Homelessness, “ 2013, P. 1).
- Case Management (CM) is critical to meet complex needs of persons experiencing homelessness.
- MedQuest has expanded funding and programs to keep up with growing homeless population.
- “Despite their severe situations, many chronically homeless people are unable to access disability programs... (“Ending Homelessness, “2013, p. 1-2).
A Problem with Real Solutions

- Problem: Homeless population without access to behavioral health care

- Solution: “Medicaid expansion under the ACA
  - provides a core of set of benefits - including behavioral health coverage.
  - coverage for the expanded eligibility group means an influx of Medicaid dollars to local service systems, creating strategic funding opportunities

= ENHANCED BENEFIT for homeless persons

= ADDITIONAL RESOURCE for homeless service providers

Of homeless individuals have unmet Mental health needs. Consequently, homelessness should be regarded as a significant and increasing threat to public health, which should be addressed (The Unmet Healthcare Needs of Homeless Adults, 2010)
Benefits of Case Management for Homelessness

- Coordinating & accessing services needed by homeless persons
- Readies a person for housing
- Promotes housing stability
- Improves overall health and wellness
- Facilitates recovery, becoming part of the community again
Standard Case Management (SCM) for Homeless

- Usually at shelters, outreach
- Coordination of and linkage to services to meet assessed needs
- Goal: Housing, link to services system to provide for ongoing supportive care
Homeless Intensive Case Management (ICM)

- Typically targeted to individuals with high needs/ high system utilization
- When client requires more intensive services
- More frequent client contact
- Smaller individual caseloads than SCM.
Assertive Community Treatment (ACT)

- Closely related to ICM; however,
- Responsibility for providing services shared by a multidisciplinary team
- Accessible 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
Critical Time Intervention (CTI)

- Intensive time-limited case management to enhance continuity of care by bridging gap between services and strengthening clients’ social support, provider network.
- Designed to be deployed at critical moments in the lives of clients, for instance, when a person is about to make a transition from shelter to independent housing.
